"How could I stumble? I was floating on air," says Olympic Torch carrier Dolly Hand

By Brenda Bunting
Editor

It was a moment in history not soon forgotten by those who witnessed the event. Carrying high the Olympic Torch, Dolly Hand of Belle Glade walked from Valley Forge Road to Linda Lane on U.S. 1 Friday night. She was cheered on by over 200 Glades residents who came out to support her efforts.

"Did I stumble? Nope. How could I stumble? I was floating on air," says Mrs. Hand.

It was a once-in-a-lifetime experience says Belle Glade's hometown hero, who was one of only 78 residents from Palm Beach County chosen to carry the sacred flame.

"I could hardly contain myself," said Mrs. Hand. "It was so gratifying."

A mass of approval went up from the crowd as Mrs. Hand stepped from the official Olympic shuttle bus at 10:20 p.m. to begin her five block walk. Many hugged her and told her how proud they were that she was chosen to represent the Glades and her country by carrying the torch.

Her husband, Homer Hand, walked along the five block route with his wife and expressed his gratitude to the many friends and residents of the Glades who came out in support. "This is great," he said, "to see so many Glades residents here."

Renee Tyler of Belle Glade marked the starting point of Mrs. Hand's walk with an official Olympic flag. Mrs. Tyler, who nominated Mrs. Hand for the honor in January, said "carrying the flag for Dolly was such an honor. It was very exciting."

The Olympic Relay committee received hundreds of nominations from Palm Beach County, but officials chose Mrs. Hand for her charitable works, acts of generosity, kindness and community involvement.

Mrs. Hand said being chosen to carry the Olympic Torch on its odyssey across the country was one of the highlights of her life, right up there with being named Belle Glade's Citizen of the Year a few years back and having the local cultural arts center named in her honor.

"All of these honors, I feel like I have received them because the people of the Glades are so special and so caring. I know a 1,000 people here more deserving than I am. I'm just so grateful," she said.

Longtime friend Dee Luce, who attends the same church as Mr. and Mrs. Hand, says she sent her friend back home Sunday morning during church services. "I told her to go home and get the torch so we could all see it," she said. "She shared it with us and with the children. It was wonderful."

Mrs. Luce said she enjoyed watching Mrs. Hand carry the torch through the streets. "She was just the one to carry it. She is such an outstanding person to begin with," she said.

Dr. Helen Franke, provost at Palm Beach Community College, Glades Campus, attended the torch relay to watch her friend carry the Olympic Torch.

"It was a tremendous turnout and it was great to see the way Dolly shared the torch with the children," she said. "She has supported the Glades and its people all her life and it's great to see her honored like this," said Dr. Franke.

"Dolly was a wonderful representative for Belle Glade. She is truly deserving and they couldn't have found anyone better in the whole county," said Leigh Woodham, executive director of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce.

One lady who was waiting for the torch to pass by said "Who is this person so many people have come out to see? She was told 'It's our own Dolly Hand from the Glades.'"

Lightening strikes 9 on the 4th of July

This year, Pahokee's Independence Day was electrified, leaving citizens hoping the saying "lightening never strikes twice in the same place" to be true.

Lakeside, many residents and visitors of Pahokee, after being at the lake most of the day swimming, eating, and playing, were preparing themselves for the festivities of the

Pahokee initiates Florida Main Street

By Buffie Chapman
Staff Writer

Pahokee has found a cookbook to success.

The town, in conjunction with Belle Glade, South Bay, and Clewiston, is working to initiate a "Regional" Florida Main Street.

Bob Trescott of the Florida

Department of State, Division of Historical Resources, held a meeting June 12 in Pahokee. He discussed and explained the Florida Main Street concept.

Florida Main Street is a program set up by the Department of State, Division of Historical Resources to help small communities develop their downtown areas in an effort to become comprehensive and economically viable.

The State gives the community a grant of $10,000 and offers an abundance of consulting, technical, architectural, and engineering assistance.

"The program helps build economic vitality, quality of life, and community pride," said Trescott.

Florida Main Street is sometimes referred to as the four point approach. The four points covered are organization, design, promotion, and economic restructuring.

"I think communities used to know intuitively that business, churches, schools, and government, all of those elements working together, were the resources of downtown, which made up the community atmosphere," said Trescott.

The State has guidelines the communities must follow and one part of these guidelines says the communities involved must hire a coordinator.

Cooperative rejects payment from federal government

Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida waived its right to receive up to $28,000 in federal government payments it was deemed eligible to receive under the new Freedom to Farm Act for owning land which had a history of growing field corn and/or grain sorghum more than 10 years ago.

"We are philosophically opposed to payments from the government to grow or not to grow a crop," said George H. Wedgworth, president of the Cooperative. "That's why we continue to fight for a sugar program that does not negatively impact the federal treasury. In fact, the U.S. sugar program is not only mandated to operate at no cost, it actually contributes over $30 million annually toward deficit reduction through the imposition of marketing assessments on sugar producers."

"Unlike what our detractors say, sugar growers do not receive one red cent from the federal government and we wish to keep it that way," he said. "We believe we can compete with farmers anywhere in the world. However, it would be unfair for us to have to compete with heavily subsidized foreign dumped sugar in the U.S. marketplace. We would like nothing more than to have worldwide free and fair trade. But in lieu of that, we think the U.S. sugar policy makes sense for consumers and producers."

U.S. consumers pay 28 percent less for their sugar compared to consumers in other developed countries. Sugar cost just 39 cents per pound retail in the United States compared to $1.04 in Japan, 68 cents in France and 51 cents in Germany.

The Belle Glade-based Cooperative is comprised of 57 small to medium size sugarcane farms located in Palm Beach County. During the 1996 harvest season the Cooperative harvested 2.7 million tons of sugarcane from 65,000 acres of their members' land, yielding 298,000 tons of sugar. The Cooperative employs over 900 people with an annual payroll in excess of $26 million.

HOT TOWN, SUMMER IN THE CITY... Some Belle Glade residents find a wet way to stay cool this summer as temperatures hover in the high 90's. These folks are enjoying the Lake Shore Civic Center pool. The pool is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Panic and anxiety disorders are the nation's most common mental health problem, affecting more than 28 million Americans a year. Symptoms might include racing heartbeat, dizziness, unreasonable fears, excessive worrying, difficulty breathing, sweating and feeling constantly tense.

ple who consistently apply themselves to the program become panic free and maintain those results for up to 24 months (the length of time for which there is research data).

To people who are suffering from anxiety and panic disorders, anxiety becomes a powerful dictator in their everyday lives and can make it difficult to work or participate in activities that were once enjoyable. It can make people act irrationally and make living a normal life virtually impossible. At the State University of New York at Albany, which is the largest research center in the world on anxiety disorders, Dr. David Barlow has spent ten years developing a successful treatment program. Dr. Barlow's clinical research demonstrates that 80 to 90 percent of the peo-

"I wish USave management, or perhaps the police, would pick up the stolen grocery carts standing on Southeast Avenue F and Southeast Third Street, Belle Glade.

Obviously the carts do not belong to the people who have taken them and just add to an increasingly trashy neighborhood for the rest of us residents.

Thank you."

Give us a break

"I'm calling about last week's Speak Out 'Thank goodness they're gone.' I want to correct that woman, or who ever it was, on a few points she made. We don't go through people's yards and we don't disturb people. We just want to ride and have fun and recreation time out there.

Your caller was biased in a lot of things. Thank you."

Editor's note: Thank you young man for Speaking Out. It's good to hear from our young people and to know they feel they can express their opinions also. I agree with you, it is a shame young adults do not have a place to ride in the Glades for recreation. I don't have any answers. How about any of our readers?

AKC offers Free kit for summer travel

The American Kennel Club is offering a free travel kit for the many families who will be traveling this summer. It is filled with helpful hints and travel tips that assist dog owners in preparing and planning for packing up the family dog, plus some important suggestions for boarding your dog in a kennel. The kit offers sound advice for traveling with your canine companion and should be helpful in making summer excursions pleasant for both you and your dog. Some useful tips include:

- You must provide the airline with a certificate of health from your vet to travel with your dog by plane.

- Feed your dog one-third his normal amount the day of travel to reduce the chance of motion sickness.

- When choosing a kennel, make sure it is clean and orderly. Ask the kennel proprietor to see all areas where your dog will be kept.

This kit will assist travelers in having a hassle free and enjoyable summer holiday, says Jeanine O'Kane, Senior Public Relations Manager for AKC.

WeTip Crime Hot Line keeps watchful eye over Florida municipalities and communities during summer

Operators of WeTip's anonymous toll-free crime Hot Line (1-800-765-4765) are standing on alert as Florida prepares for summer, a time of year when the state's crime rates are at their highest levels. With arrests for property crimes up nearly 50 percent from 1990-1994 (latest statistics available) in the Sunshine state, the national crime fighting organization hopes that its presence will help deter and defeat crimes against Florida's municipalities and communities.

The concept for WeTip's 24-hour crime Hot Line is simple, yet extremely effective, says Susan Aguilar, a spokesperson for WeTip. Residents who have knowledge about a crime and want to report it to authorities, without revealing their identity, can call the Hot Line and provide the information to a WeTip operator.

To ensure that all callers remain anonymous, operators are instructed to answer the phone with the greeting, "This is the WeTip Hot Line, please do not give your name." Callers whose information leads to an arrest and conviction may receive a reward, which is also paid anonymously through a code name and number.

"The guarantee of anonymity and safety from a central crime reporting location is what makes WeTip so unique and effective in these high crime times," said Ms. Aguilar.

Since 1974, WeTip's impact on crime throughout the country has been dramatic. Hot Line operators have received almost 300,000 calls with information on crimes ranging from drug possession to graffiti or arson to armed robbery. These tips have led to nearly 12,000 arrests, 5,500 convictions and the seizure of drugs worth more than $300 million.

Helping WeTip to encourage the public's support in identifying and apprehending those who commit crimes in Florida is the Coregis Group, a Chicago-based specialty insurer. As a service to its property policyholders, which includes 28 municipalities in Florida, the Coregis Group provides public entities with WeTip membership and funds rewards for tips which lead to arrests and convictions for crimes against their communities.

"Coregis' support of WeTip is an integral part of our strategy to help Florida municipalities manage their risk of crime and property damage," said James Carey, senior vice president, Coregis Group's Public Entity Division. "Our job is to make sure that municipalities spend less money on repairing damaged property and more on services and resources which benefit their schools and communities," he added.

Pollution prevention starts at home

By Linda S. Hodgkins

Solid Waste Authority

Each of us generates household hazardous waste every year. A 1995 survey confirmed the fact that the majority of Palm Beach County residents do not know what to do with household hazardous waste. When improperly disposed, things like used oil, pesticides, etc., can contaminate water supplies, injure waste handlers and endanger wildlife.

In an effort to prevent pollution, the Solid Waste Authority (SWA) of Palm Beach County is launching a mass media campaign entitled "Pollution Prevention Begins at Home." The three month long campaign, which started July 1, will educate residents on how to properly use, store and dispose of household hazardous waste.

A Hazardous Waste Hotline, 561-687-2700 or toll free at 930-ASAP, has been established so that residents can call to request specific information.

Special collection events, mini-seminars, radio, television and newspaper advertisements are all components of the education program.

For further information on this program, please call Sue

Clancy, Community Education Specialist, Office of Recycling at 561-640-4000 ext. 4409.

The Solid Waste Authority of Palm Beach County is the public agency providing the county with a comprehensive and cost-effective system for solid waste disposal.

This system currently includes a waste-to-energy plant, five regional transfer stations, landfill operations, a compost facility, hazardous waste collection program, and materials recycling facility (MRF). SWA also contracts for garbage collection for the unincorporated areas of the county.

Historic preservation special category grants announced

Secretary of State Sandra B. Mortham today announced the state budget recently signed into law by Governor Lawton Chiles contains nearly $12 million in Special Category grant funds for 49 large-scale historic preservation projects. "In providing these grants, both the Governor and the Legislature acknowledged the importance of historic structures, archaeological sites and history museums to the quality of life enjoyed by our citizens and visitors to our state," said Mortham.

Special Category grants are funded by the Florida Legislature to assist restoration of historic structures, archeological excavations, and museum exhibit projects involving the development and presentation of exhibitions and educational materials on the human occupation of Florida. The projects were included in the Department of State's budget request based on the recommendations of the Historic Preservation Advisory Council.

The Historic Preservation Advisory Council is a twelve-member citizen advisory group appointed by the Secretary of State. Members of the Council are: Augusta Bird of Monticello, Frances Bourque of Delray Beach, Victor Diaz of Miami Beach, Alvin Jackson of Eustis, Janet Snyder Matthews of Sarasota, Kathleen Monahan of Tarpon Springs, Duane Ottenstroer of Jacksonville, Sylvia Vega Smith of Tampa, Dana Ste. Claire of Daytona Beach, Doris Tillman of Fort Pierce, Antonia Vogt of Tallahassee and Laura Ward of Fort Lauderdale.

One of the projects receiving grant funding is the Old Pahokee High School, Palm Beach, which received $235,000.

"Go Dolly"....Over 200 Glades residents cheered as Dolly Hand stepped from the Olympic shuttle bus at Valley Forge Rd. in West Palm Beach to begin her Torch Relay walk.

Regional Main Street

The coordinator tries to help revitalize the downtown area by marketing businesses; working with existing businesses to show them how to increase their productivity; assisting in beautification projects, etc. anything to revitalize the downtown areas.

The cities must apply for this program and presently, the application for Pahokee is in the process of being filled out.

The application process is a competitive process. The State reviews all of the applications they receive and then pick the communities they feel best fit what the State is trying to do.

The deadline for completing and returning the application is July 26. In mid-August there will be a meeting to select this year's applicants, and by the end of August, the cities will know who has been designated.

The City of Pahokee submitted an application about six years ago but the city wasn't selected. Since then, the Chamber of Commerce and the Charrette have been trying to organize Pahokee's Main Street with local area resources available.

The two biggest problems Pahokee had with pursuing Main Street is it requires a major commitment from the downtown, community, and Pahokee, alone, couldn't afford to hire the development coordinator required.

Pahokee City Manager Ken Schenck said since the City of Pahokee alone didn't have the money to hire a coordinator, Palm Beach County's Senior County Planner Vicki Silver materialized the idea to have a Regional Main Street by combining areas around the lake that were in the same predicament as Pahokee.

The State has never tried a regional Main Street before, so right now the four cities are trying to set up a regional application which will cover Clewiston, South Bay, Belle Glade, and Pahokee, all of which would chip in to pay for the coordinator. Schenck says the regional Main Street approach for the whole area has never been done anywhere else in the State, so he thinks the State is also kind of anxious to see how it works.

"I have talked to Belle Glade and to Clewiston and everyone is anxious to be involved in the program but nobody really knows how the details are going to work until we sit down together and talk with the State," said Schenck.

Schenck says, in general, the program will help Pahokee fix up the downtown area because it has become a bit run-down.

"We need to get the downtown area fixed and get some new businesses in there. We hope the program will make our downtown more viable," said Schenck.

The only negative aspect of having a Regional Main Street is the coordinator's time will be spread out because they will be working with several different communities.

"I think the regional (putting all communities together) approach for this area is much more significant than it is in most places. I would start with the regional approach," said Trescott.

"Eventually each of these downtowns or separate organizations will deal with their own issues but I would start regional," Trescott added.

"During the Mainstreet process each city should be building local volunteer entities in each town because at some point the community interests are going to differentiate themselves and I wouldn't want to maintain some global place all around the lake," said Trescott.

"We just hope we are selected this year," Schenck concluded.

Florida presently has approximately 40 cities involved in the Florida Main Street program.

PAHOKEE'S CLASS OF 1996 IS GETTING A JUMP START ON PROM...

Pahokee High School's Class of 1996 will be paying for prom next year so they decided to get an early start on the debt by holding a car wash this summer. The goal they must meet before prom next year is $7,000. Pictured above, not in order, are Class Sponsor Ms. Shane Aurora, Tamara Roundtree, Farrah Ferguson, Shatara Boldin, Retha Prescod, Edwin Mondragon, and Palm Beach County Deputy Sheriff Philip Dimola who gave the group a little business June 29. The group will host two additional car washes on Saturday, July 20 and Saturday, Aug. 24. The car washes will be held in front of the Pahokee Fire Station located at 181 N. Lake Ave, Pahokee. The group charges $3 per car and $5 per truck, and will accept random donations. The group would like to thank the City of Pahokee for providing the water at no charge and the Pahokee Fire Department for the facility.

THE 16TH SCHOOL REUNION OF EVERGLADES VOCATIONAL AND LAKE SHORE HIGH WAS HELD AT GLADES CENTRAL COMMUNITY HIGH SCHOOL, BELLE GLADE, ON JUNE 29.

Quota hunt applications at GFC regional offices

In addition to the regular nine-day and special quota hunt program, Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) offices have applications on hand for a variety of unique quota hunts.

For instance, hunters who have mobility impairments and who require special equipment can apply for hunts on the Three Lakes and Seminole Forest wildlife management areas (WMAs) in central Florida, the Holton Creek WMA in northeast Florida, and the John G. and Susan H. Dupuis Jr. Wildlife and Environmental Area in the Everglades Region.

"These hunts are set aside exclusively for mobility-impaired hunters," quota hunt coordinator Eddie White said. "They aren't intended for all hunters possessing the Florida disabled hunting and fishing license, but rather those persons permanently confined to a wheelchair, persons requiring the use of mechanical aids (crutches and walkers) to walk and those with complete single leg amputations."

Interested persons should obtain a Mobility-Impaired Persons Hunt application, he said.

Another unique hunt is one established for hunters between eight and 15 years old. Two WMAs in northeast Florida — Camp Blanding and Andrews — offer the opportunity for adults to take young hunters on these rigidly-controlled hunts where safety and learning receive maximum emphasis.

"Applicants typically exceed the number of spaces available each year," White said. "To sign up, ask for a Camp Blanding and Andrews Supervised Youth Hunt application."

The Goethe WMA in Levy County has a quota on the number of groups that may use dogs to hunt. The Commission has established a quota of seven groups ranging in size from five to 15 hunters. Interested groups should submit Goethe Dog Hunt applications.

Permits to operate a track vehicle on the Rotenberger, Everglades and Holey Land WMAs are issued in two random selections. Track vehicles that were included in the 1995-96 random selection, but did not receive a permit, will be included in the first random selection. All other track vehicles will be included in the second random selection. Ask for the Track Vehicle application.

Permits to operate airboats on the Everglades and Francis S. Taylor WMA also are issued in two random selections. Airboats that were included in the 1993-94 random selection, but did not receive a permit, will be included in the first random selection, and all others will be included in the second random selection. Ask for the Everglades Airboat application.

The Bradwell Unit is a new 1,400-acre addition to the Apalachicola Wildlife Management Area at the conflux of Gadsden, Liberty and Leon counties. The unit was added late to be included on the regular and special quota hunt applications this year. A separate application is available for the two archery, one muzzleloading gun and two general gun hunts on the Bradwell Unit. A quota of 10 hunters will be allowed for each hunt.

Applications for these unique hunts are due in Tallahassee between July 10 and 26. They must be delivered by a postal delivery service during that period and may not be delivered in person. To obtain applications, hunters should contact or visit Commission offices in Tallahassee, Panama City, Lake City, Ocala, Lakeland, or West Palm Beach.

"Hunters will receive either a quota hunt permit or a rejection notice," White said. "The 10,000 sportsmen who will receive rejection notices also will receive instructions about resupplying for other areas that still have openings."

Hunters who have not submitted regular nine-day and special hunt applications should do so at once. Applications received after June 11 are placed in first come, first-served order for areas that do not reach their quotas during the random selection.

GFC relaxes regulations for live-release Bass tournaments

Bass tournaments with 10 or more anglers, that practice live-release of fish, may apply for special permits from the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) for a temporary exemption to slot-size (protected length range), maximum-size regulations and the special daily bag limit on black bass.

GFC assistant director of fisheries Derrell Scovell said fishing clubs or other organizations sponsoring bass tournaments may obtain a permit to temporarily possess black bass within slot limits, fish that exceed maximum legal size limits and more than one bass 22 inches or longer. Anglers must live-release all fish caught immediately following the weigh-in, including those bass within legally allowed bag limits. No exemptions will be granted to statewide minimum length limits of 13 inches and 14 inches.

Anglers participating in permitted tournaments also must agree to handle all fish in accordance with GFC's scientific guidelines and submit timely reports of fish taken during tournaments to the GFC.

Tournament anglers fishing lakes Jackson (Leon County), Okeechobee, Orange and Lochloosa are eligible for permits from July through September only if they abide by additional and more stringent catch-and-release guidelines, under a special study being conducted by GFC fisheries biologists.

Scovell said GFC biologists currently are evaluating these guidelines to see if they can reduce bass mortality due to stress from handling during summer months.

"If these guidelines work, we will modify GFC rules to allow tournaments on these lakes during July through September on a routine basis," Scovell said.

Applications for permits are available from GFC's regional offices located in Panama City, Lake City, Ocala, Lakeland and West Palm Beach. Applications for permits for lakes Jackson, Okeechobee, Orange and Lochloosa may be obtained from GFC field offices in Quincy (904) 627-9674, Okeechobee (941) 763-4666, and Gainesville (352) 392-9617, respectively.

Fishing with B.A.S.S. Pro. Walt Reynolds

I wonder just how the fish are able to stand the hot water, with the water temperatures approaching the 90s. It is a wonder you can get them to eat at all. The bass are deeper water and slow down.

For those of you unfortunate enough to have to work mornings, there is a pretty good bite the last hour before dark.

Walt Reynolds

Steve Daniel said he had been catching some good quality fish on small crankbaits. He said a lot of the fish were near the surface chasing minnow baits. Remember to use caution while out fishing in the heat of the day. With the high humidity it is easy to suffer heat exhaustion or even heat stroke. There is a good early morning bite on the grass edges on spinner baits and top water baits. After the sun gets up you need to back off to stroke.

To all a good bite, Walt Reynolds B.A.S.S. Touring Pro.

children were standing under one of the many Australian pine trees to take cover from the drizzling rain when the lightning struck.

One of the youngest struck, A.J. Welch, was flown by Trauma Hawk to St. Mary's Medical Center in West Palm Beach. The rest of the children were transported by ambulance and pickup trucks to Everglades Memorial Hospital for observation.

Medical personnel at E.R.M.C. said the group was held in the hospital overnight to run tests to make sure the lightning didn't disrupt their heart rhythms or the functions of other vital organs, and for observation.

Among the youth struck by lightning were Jennifer Watkins, 12; Helen Welch, 15; Leroy Allen A.J. # Meteorologist has an outstanding track record predicting storms

By Mike Lyons

It was a little too close for comfort. The first tropical system of the 1996 season formed less than 60 miles from our coastline. Thankfully, Tropical Storm Arthur never amounted to much.

He did huff and puff along the North Carolina coast and he did dump several inches of rain along the Outer Banks. But, overall, our first storm was pretty much of a whimper. We may not be as lucky, however, with Bertha or Cesar or any other storms that may form this year.

Dr. William Gray, the hurricane forecaster who is correct 80% of the time, predicts that this hurricane season will not be as active as 1995. However, that doesn't mean you can throw away your hurricane tracking chart.

Gray's latest forecasts calls for 10 tropical storms, six hurricanes and two intense hurricanes. An intense hurricane is defined as a storm with sustained winds greater than 110 mph.

Gray doesn't say where these storms will develop or if they will strike any land mass. But, another hurricane predictor does.

Meteorologist Jill Healing works for the Weather Research Center in Houston, Texas. Jill not only predicts the number of storms (she is forecasting 10 tropical storms and five hurricanes this season) but where these storms will hit.

The section of the United States with the highest risk of experiencing a tropical storm or hurricane is the east coast of Georgia to North Carolina,"

she said. Jill believes there's a 90 percent chance this area will be struck by a storm. She was right, of course, when Tropical Storm Arthur swept along the Georgia-North Carolina coast in mid-June.

The area with the second highest probability of getting hit by a storm is the west coast of Florida with a 70 percent chance. Jill says our part of Florida has a 40 percent chance of seeing a tropical storm or hurricane.

Jill has an outstanding track record. Last year, she predicted tropical systems would hit Texas and the west coast of Florida. Texas was hit by Tropical Storm Dean while Florida's west coast experienced three hurricanes—Allison, Erin and Opal.

Jill has been making predictions since 1986 and she's only made two minor mistakes. In 1987 and in 1992, storms did not strike in the areas of highest probability. However, tropical systems did hit in the regions of second highest probability.

To make her predictions, Healing uses something she calls the Solar Cyclone Strike Index. "We base the index on the premise that the same phenomena that causes the solar cycle on the sun might have an impact on tropical storms and hurricanes here on earth," she said.

The idea of a relationship between the sunspot cycle and tropical systems is not new. Sunspot researchers in the early 1950s correctly predicted that the period from 1950 to 1990 would see a relatively small number of hurricanes in the Atlantic. Jill took that basic premise expanding it into her Solar Cyclone Strike Index.

Like many hurricane forecasters, Jill thinks an increase in hurricane activity is coming our way. In 1996, for example, she thinks there's a 90 percent chance of a hurricane striking our area.

She adds, however, that each year every part of our coastline has a chance to experience a storm. In other words, don't throw away that hurricane tracking chart.

Mike Lyons is the weatherman for WBFF, Channel 25.

swab and provide a definitive diagnosis. The recommended first-line treatment for this STD may consist of taking a specific antibiotic, like Tetracycline or Erythromycin for anywhere from one to three weeks, as prescribed by your physician. Both partners must be treated to get rid of the disease.

If you have questions about STD's you can call, free of charge, the American Social Health Association's National STD hot-line (1-800-227-8922) Monday thru Friday from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. This call is confidential. A brochure detailing more information called "My Health Matters: How to Talk to Your Doctor About Sexual Health" is available by calling toll free, 1-800-972-8500.

If you think you may be infected with any type of STD, please contact your healthcare provider and be prepared to discuss this "sensitive" matter openly and honestly with them. After all, it is your health at stake. You have a problem and you need reliable answers and solutions.

Until next time...stay informed and stay healthy.

It has been the general consensus of people I have spoken with in the Glades area, that, due to the lack of confidentiality involving healthcare matters, they prefer "going to the Coast." That way they can, more or less, blend in with the masses and not become the subject of local gossip. One especially sensitive area concerns STD's. Sexually Transmitted Diseases are still on the rise in our country. An alarming statistic published by the American Social Health Association revealed that over 50 percent of Americans say their physician never discusses sexually-transmitted diseases with them. If this subject can't be discussed with a doctor, who else is knowledgeable enough to address the problem? With teenagers, especially, they only discuss "sexual" topics with their peers. My question is, "Where do their friends get their information?" From other teens? I would hope not, as they are definitely NOT the recognized authority on STD's!

One of the "newest" STD's on the block, if you will, is the little-known Chlamydia trachomatis. Chlamydia (pronounced 'cla-mi-dia', the "H" is silent), can cause problems, especially if an expectant mother is infected. She can pass along to her newborn child pneumonia, middle-ear infections, and a certain type of conjunctivitis, or eye infections, that can lead to blindness. In third world countries, Chlamydia is the leading cause of blindness. In the United States, it is now the most common STD, with an estimated 4 million Americans affected each year.

The symptoms are similar to gonorrhea: in males it can manifest itself by difficult urination, urinary frequency, urethral pain, and/or a foamy, yellow, pus-like discharge from the penis. In females, pelvic pain and painful menstrual periods may be present as well as painful urination and urinary frequency. The worst problem for all concerned, however, is the fact that there may be NO outward symptoms at all. The person who contracts Chlamydia may have a history of unprotected sexual contact with an infected person, an unknown partner, or multiple sex partners. He or she may also have had another sexually transmitted disease in the past.

A simple diagnostic test can be performed with a cotton
